LAURA LOOMER FOR CONGRESS ELECTION NIGHT REMARKS

PALM BEACH, Fla.— Thank you, ladies and gentlemen. I know that this isn't the result we were all hoping for tonight, but I want you to know that the battle does not end here. We are not done.

But before I go on, I need to thank my family, my incredible volunteers, my donors, my campaign staff, Roger Stone, and of course my rock Karen Giorno for everything they have done for me.

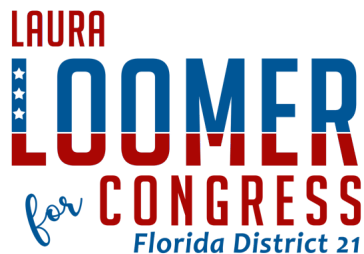

Aside from a small circle of intimates, and you guys, no one out there in the wider country expected me to win tonight. Not even people in my own party, if we're being honest. But I did get the votes of President Trump, the First Lady, and Rush Limbaugh, who is in our thoughts and prayers.

I was motivated to run for Congress by all the right instincts. No one, no politician, should go unchallenged for eight years in any office like Lois Frankel has.

We were handicapped in the campaign from day one, but we kept breaking records and shocking the world. We were not given the same respect in the media – and we were the only deplatformed and banned campaign in the nation. This is a first in United States history, and it will be studied in years to come as we learn how social media censorship will play a key role in US elections, news, and communication in American elections moving forward. Every single candidate in the nation beside myself had access to social media this election cycle. We asked the national Republican Party for help, but they refused to help, despite the fact that I won my primary in double digits and was endorsed by President Trump. We also broke fundraising records as a first-time candidate who received no financial support from the NRCC, RJC, PACS, or the national Republican Party.

From the beginning, big tech election interference was always a handicap in this campaign, but their brazen act of silencing Americans was the inspiration for my run for office, and it will be the inspiration for the fight ahead. Because I won't stop fighting for every American to have a voice. I will never allow the Left to cancel America, or cancel our First Amendment right, which ensures free and fair elections and makes us the greatest country in the world.

I knew, my team knew, and everyone else here in this room knew as well, that all we needed was each other and God, and all we had to do was trust the instincts and judgment of the people in Florida's twenty-first district. Let me let the numbers speak for themselves. In Day of Voting today, I led Lois Frankel by 22.6 %. In early voting, prior to the last presidential debate, we were ahead by 3.09%. The momentum was clearly on our side. However, vote by mail was insurmountable. Vote by mail wouldn't have even been as big as it was this year if it weren't for the Chinese Virus. The Democrats took advantage of people's fear of getting the virus if they voted in person.

Since I announced my candidacy, I've been out there every day on the streets with my heroic army of volunteers. I was told by reporters and political experts, "Florida 21 is deep blue. You have no hope." But I didn't let that deter me for a second. I've made a career out of trying to accomplish the impossible, giving others the courage to fight along the way.

What we didn't count on was just how dirty my opponent would play, and what a dampening effect it would have when the Republican Party nationally pretended I didn't exist and refused to lend a hand or provide us with even a dollar in support.

Reporters and Washington types were "socially distancing" from voters in Florida-21 out of sheer snobbery, afraid of what they might hear on the doorsteps of the district. And it's precisely that kind of snobbery and elitism, which produce misinformation and injustice, that motivated me to run for Congress in the first place.

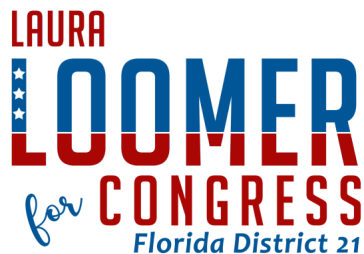

I realized some time ago that America was entering a new era in which Big Tech and party leaderships could collude and conspire with special interest groups and sinister global forces to destroy people's lives and systematically misinform the public.

These people believe they have the right, and the power, to determine elections. Sadly, sometimes they do.

The GOP leadership, the pundits and the reporters chose to sneer from afar instead of turning up and finding out what was really happening. I know that this seat is winnable. In fact, if you look at the numbers from tonight, I beat Lois Frankel in Early voting and in person election day voting. I also out fundraised her every single quarter since filing to run for Congress in August of last year...while literally being the most censored woman in the world. It is truly unprecedented.

She only won tonight because of mail in ballots, which were sent in weeks ago before we knew about all the Democrat scandals that have been trickling in over the last 3 weeks.

Our campaign also faced unprecedented election interference from the local news stations and telecommunications firms. Two days before my primary, CBS 12 News reported the election results in full before the election even took place, reporting me with only 2% of the vote. They did it again this year, and only deleted it after our FEC attorney contacted them. Comcast, which is the only Internet service provider here in Palm Beach County for people who live in condo and home associations, blocked all of my campaign text messages and emails for users with Comcast. Comcast donated to Lois Frankel's campaign and Lois Frankel owns stock in Comcast.

They were all in on the plan to censor our campaign in ways that no other American citizen has ever been censored. Our campaign had no social media, and my ability to send emails and texts were cut off in an unprecedented act of election interference that has never been seen in this nation before.

Again, we told the national Republican Party, but they refused to assist. We can only now imagine how much better the turnout could have been tonight if the Republican Party would have just shown some leadership.

I did everything I could to bring a win home. But, unfortunately, no woman is an island, and without the support of the party, either locally or nationally, I couldn't reach the top of the mountain.

But I have news for these shadowy and corrupt cabals. Your power is waning. Your grip on our democracy is finally loosening, thanks to the movement unleashed by President Trump. You will not triumph.

Because we are people of faith—Christians and Jews—and we know how this story ends.

We gave the forces of darkness an almighty shock in 2016 when we elected Donald Trump. Tonight, we turned the page to a new and thrilling chapter in the story—a story of principled, grassroots rebellion against elitist tyranny.

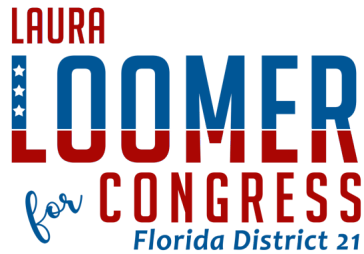

This is not the last you have heard from Laura Loomer.

I want to thank everyone here for standing by me on this journey, for sticking by me, when the press was hurling insults, and my opponent, political parties, and the most powerful companies in the world were calling for me to be censored.

Thank you for encouraging your friends and neighbors to vote for me, even when it threatened friendships or business relationships.

Thank you.

Our opponents operate by bullying, doxing, intimidating, stoking riots, slander, libel, destroying businesses, defaming the police and scaring us into silence and compliance. We can never allow them to silence us. We can never allow them to steal our elections or bully us into compliance with their radical agenda.

I pray that my colleagues on the right side of the aisle see the light, and never again allow themselves to be cowed into silence by our enemies. Grassroots America First candidates need the backing of the party if we are to succeed.

In the meantime, I'll be back.

You can count on that.

I won't be silenced.

I won't let them take my voice away. I won't let them take your voice away.

I won't let them silence the voters here in Florida 21 either.

Now, let's enjoy our hard work tonight as we await the fate of our nation and the re-election of our great president, Donald J Trump.

In the days to come, stay tuned. Because I will be making an announcement about what is next for me and you.

Thank you, everyone. God bless you, and God bless the greatest country in the history of human civilization, the United States of America!
